Local Financial Advisor Named Among Top Advisors by Reuters

Robert Kargenian Included on New AdvicePoint™ Web Site

ORANGE, CA (January 23, 2008) – Local financial advisor Robert M. Kargenian, CMT, has been listed among the Top Advisers 2008 List, published by Reuters, the global information company. A principal at TABR Capital Management, LLC, Kargenian is well versed in all aspects of personal financial planning, including investment management, tax planning and estate planning strategies. To be considered for the list, advisers were asked to complete an online survey regarding the metrics of their practice. Quantitative criteria including multi-year growth of average assets per client were used to benchmark advisers in categories including location, assets under management, and niche client.

The list was published as part of the launch of Reuters' new Web site AdvicePoint™

(www.reutersadvicepoint.com), an online forum which provides investors with a better way to find financial advisers and experts that suit their needs. It combines Reuters' news and Lipper investment information with blogs, forums, collaborative tools and exclusive financial adviser profiles.

“With the increase in investors seeking the assistance of a financial adviser, Reuters AdvicePoint aims to become the place where investors connect with financial advisers and other financial experts,” said Scott Parry, general manager, Reuters AdvicePoint. “While most financial web sites are there to serve the self-directed investor, Reuters AdvicePoint provides financial advisers with a rare opportunity to communicate with a community of investors that are actively looking to be advised. Top Advisers 2008 is just one of the ways in which Reuters AdvicePoint helps investors connect with financial advisers who are best suited to address their unique issues.”
